NEWS RELEASE

For Immediate Release

Author Sonia Faruqi at Lambton County Library

Wednesday, April 14, 2016

Wyoming, ON – Sonia Faruqi, author of 'Project Animal Farm' will be visiting two Lambton County Library branch locations on Saturday, May 7 to discuss her book. Faruqi will be at the Petrolia Library at 1:00 p.m. and the Sarnia Library Theatre at 3:00 p.m.

Faruqi, who once pursued a career in investment banking on Wall Street, will discuss her concerns of farm animal treatment based on her global expedition to farms around the world and the insights and solutions she's developed to make the world a better place for all its inhabitants. She also offers tips to consumers who want to make ethical purchases.

For more information, please contact the Sarnia Library at 519-337-3251 or the Petrolia Library at 519-882-0771. Pre-registration is required at the Petrolia Library event.

Lambton County Library offers a variety of free materials and services to meet the leisure and informational needs of the community through its 26 branches, bookmobile and website. eReader lending, multi-media resources, online services, programs and Internet access are all available.
