Valentine wishes from the Moore Museum

Thinking ahead to spring: Volunteers at the Moore Museum are busy all year long. Winter is the time when they work on new projects and take care of maintenance chores that pop up around the site. One of the chores taken on by volunteer Dan Hayward, who has been employing his handyman skills around the museum site for the past 10 years, was the repair of a damaged iron shed latch.

Moore Museum celebrates 45th anniversary

The Moore Museum celebrates 45 years of heritage preservation in 2020 and volunteers are working hard to get the museum and its extensive collection and artifacts in shape for the coming season. A new model train layout and a unique display of Vaseline glass will be highlighted, and annual favourites like the Victorian Tea, held in the onsite Victorian cottage, will feature Victorian clad waitstaff, warm homemade scones and tea/coffee served in fine china.

Congratulations to the Moore Museum and to the Moore Agricultural Society for being chosen to receive a Lambton Creative County Grant to further their good work.

Port Lambton's 200th anniversary receives new logo

This year marks the 200th anniversary of Port Lambton. To celebrate this landmark occasion, a striking new logo has been designed to accompany all of the special events and activities being planned throughout 2020.

Be sure to watch for this logo as the year progresses.

The Beacon will carry news and information regarding these special community activities as it is received.

Too little information

This photo in the January issue of the Beacon did not recognize some of the people who contributed to the Moore Agricultural Society (MAS) pie ladies' donation of $2,135 to St. Joseph's Hospice. Emily Core of Petrolia Street Bakery, Jocelyn Cooper from All For The Love of Treats, and Parks Blueberry Farms all donated pies as well.

The pies were auctioned off during an event at the 2019 Brigden Fair with proceeds going to the hospice.

The Moore Agricultural Society and their talented pie ladies wish to express their gratitude to all of the generous businesses for their help in making the event a success.
